Our continuous improvement of services

Darling Downs First Aid Training is committed to the continuous improvement of our training and assessment services, student services and management systems. Central to this commitment is our approach to continuous improvement and the procedures we apply to achieve systematic and sustained improvement.

The primary method of reporting opportunities for improvement by students is via the continuous improvement reporting procedure. This procedure allows any person to raise a Continuous Improvement Report for consideration by the Continuous Improvement Committee. Often these reports will be generated after an opportunity for improvement has been identified by a staff member or student. They may also be raised as a consequence of a complaint and/or internal/external audit. The Continuous Improvement Report template is available on request. Students are encouraged to provide feedback to Darling Downs First Aid Training so we can improve our services in the future.

Your language, literacy and numeracy skills

Language, literacy and numeracy skills are critical to almost all areas of work. This is particularly true in many vocations where language, literacy and numeracy skills influence the performance of workplace tasks such as measuring, weighing and comprehending written work instructions.

To support this approach Darling Downs First Aid Training will:

- Assess a student's language, literacy and numeracy skills during their enrolment to ensure they have adequate skills to complete the training;
- Support students during their study with training and assessment materials and strategies that are easily understood and suitable to the level of the workplace skills being delivered;
- Provide clear information to students about the detail of the language, literacy and numeracy assistance available;

- Refer students to external language, literacy and numeracy support services that are beyond the support available within Darling Downs First Aid Training and where this level of support is assessed as necessary; and
- Negotiate an extension of time to complete training programs if necessary.

Making complaints and appeals

Darling Downs First Aid Training and third parties is committed to providing a fair and inexpensive complaints and appeals process that includes access to an independent external body if necessary.

Darling Downs First Aid Training requires all third parties agreements to strictly follow Darling Downs First Aid Training policies and procedures.

What is a complaint?

A complaint is negative feedback about services or staff which has not been resolved locally. A complaint may be received by Darling Downs First Aid Training in any form and does not need to be formally documented by the complainant in order to be acted on. Complaints may be made by any person but are generally made by students and/or employers.

What is an appeal?

An appeal is an application by a student for reconsideration of an unfavourable decision or finding during training and/or assessment. An appeal must be made in writing and specify the particulars of the decision or finding in dispute. Appeals must be lodged within 60 days of informing the student of the decision or finding.

Early resolution or complaints and appeals

In all cases, issues that arise during training and assessment that are the source of frustration or are in dispute should be resolved at the time they occur between the persons involved or within 60 days.

Complaint and appeals handling

Darling Downs First Aid Training and third parties undertakes to apply the following principles to its complaints and appeals handling:

- A written record of all complaints and appeals is to be kept by Darling Downs First Aid Training including all details of lodgement, response and resolution.
- A complainant or person lodging an appeal is to be provided an opportunity to formally present his or her case at minimal or no cost.
- Each complainant or person lodging an appeal may be accompanied and/or assisted by a support person at any relevant meeting.
- The handling of a complaint or appeal is to commence immediately after lodgement of the complaint / appeal and all reasonable measures are taken to finalise the process as soon as practicable.
- The complainant or person lodging an appeal is to be provided a written statement of the outcome, including details of the reasons for the outcome.
- The complainant or person lodging an appeal is to have the opportunity for a person or a body that is independent of Darling Downs First Aid Training to review his or her complaint or appeal following the internal Darling Downs First Aid Training complaint or appeals process. It is noted that a review of findings by an independent person or body will generally only relate to the appeals process and is less likely to be required in complaints handling.
- Darling Downs First Aid Training shall maintain the enrolment of the complainant or person lodging an appeal during the complaint or appeals process.
- Decisions or outcomes of the complaint or appeals process that find in the favour of the student or otherwise shall be implemented immediately.

Complaints and appeals are to be handled in the strictest of confidence. No Darling Downs First Aid Training representative is to disclose information to any person without the permission of the Darling Downs First Aid Training Chief Executive Officer. Decisions to release information to third parties are only to be done after the complainant or person lodging the appeal has given permission for this to occur.

- Complaints and appeals are to be considered on the basis of procedural fairness and lead to opportunities for improvement as a Continuous Improvement Report.

Recognition of your existing skills and knowledge

In accordance with the requirements of the Australian Quality Training Framework, Darling Downs First Aid Training provides the opportunity for students to apply to have prior learning recognised toward a qualification or units of competence for which they are enrolled.

What is recognition?

Recognition involves the assessment of previously unrecognised skills and knowledge that an individual has achieved outside the formal education and training system. Recognition assesses this unrecognised learning against the requirements of a unit of competence, in respect of both entry requirements and outcomes to be achieved. By removing the need for duplication of learning, recognition encourages an individual to continue upgrading their skills and knowledge through structured education and training towards formal qualifications and improved employment outcomes. This has benefits for the individual and industry. Most importantly, it should be noted that recognition is just another form of assessment.

Recognition guidelines

The following guidelines are to be followed when an application for recognition is received:

- Any student is entitled to apply for recognition in a course or qualification in which they are currently enrolled.
- Students may not apply for recognition for units of competence or a qualification which are not included in Darling Downs First Aid Training's scope of registration.
- Whilst students may apply for recognition at any time, they are encouraged to apply before commencing a training program. This will reduce unnecessary training and guide the student down a more efficient path to competence.
- Students who are currently enrolled in a training program are eligible to apply for recognition in that program at no additional charge.
- Assessment via recognition is to apply the principles of assessment and the rules of evidence.
- Recognition may only be awarded for whole units of competence.

Forms of evidence

Recognition acknowledges that workplace skills and knowledge may be gained through a variety of ways including both formal and informal learning or through work-based or life experience.

Like assessment, recognition is a process whereby evidence is collected and a judgement is made by an assessor or assessment team. The judgement is made on evidence provided by candidates of the skills and knowledge that they have previously learnt through work, study, life and other experiences, and that they are currently using. It also includes evidence to confirm a candidate's ability to adapt prior learning or current competence to the context of the intended workplace or industry.

Forms of evidence toward recognition may include:

- Work records;

- Records of workplace training;
- Assessments of current skills;
- Assessments of current knowledge;
- Third party reports from current and previous supervisors or managers;
- Evidence of relevant unpaid or volunteer experience;
- Examples of work products;
- Observation by an assessor in the workplace;
- Performance appraisal; or
- Duty statements.

Many of these forms of evidence would not be sufficient on their own. When combined together, with a number of evidence items, the candidate will start to provide a strong case for competence. Darling Downs First Aid Training reserves the right to require candidates to undertake practical assessment activities of skills and knowledge in order to satisfy itself of a candidate's current competence.

Getting credit for your current competence

Darling Downs First Aid Training acknowledges the requirement as an RTO to recognise the awards issued by other RTOs. This is limited to outcomes that are drawn from the national skills framework being units of competence awarded and accurately identified in statements of attainment and qualifications.

What is credit transfer?

Credit transfer is the recognition of learning achieved through formal education and training. Under the Australian Quality Training Framework, qualifications and statements of attainment issued by any RTO are to be accepted and recognised by all other RTOs. Credit Transfer allows a student to be awarded a unit of competency/module based on successful completion of the unit which has been previously awarded.

Evidence requirements An applicant will be required to present his or her statement of attainment or qualification for examination by Darling Downs First Aid Training. These documents will provide the detail of what units of competence the applicant has been previously issued. Applicants must provide satisfactory evidence that the statement of attainment or qualification is theirs and that it has been issued by an Australian RTO. Statements of attainment or qualifications should be in the correct format as outlined in the Australian Qualifications Framework Implementation Handbook. The applicant is required to submit copies only which are certified as a true copies of the original by a Justice of the Peace (or equivalent).

Credit transfer guidelines

The following guidelines are to be followed in relation to credit transfers:

- Any student is entitled to apply for credit transfer in a course or qualification in which they are currently enrolled.
- Students may not apply for credit transfer for units of competence or qualification which are not included in Darling Downs First Aid Training's scope of registration.
- Whilst students may apply for credit transfer at any time, they are encouraged to apply before commencing a training program. This will reduce unnecessary training and guide the student down a more efficient path to competence.
- The student does not incur any fees for credit transfer and Darling Downs First Aid Training does not receive any funding when credit transfer is granted.
- Credit transfer may only be awarded for whole units of competence. Where a mapping guide identifies a partial credit, this will not be considered for credit transfer and applicants will be advised to seek recognition.

Language, Literacy and Numeracy Policy

Language, literacy and numeracy skills are critical to almost all areas of work. This is particularly true in many vocations where language, literacy and numeracy skills influence the performance of workplace tasks such as measuring, weighing and comprehending written work instructions.

Research has indicated that many adult learners do not have the language, literacy and numeracy skills they need to effectively participate in vocational education and training. The increasing importance of employability skills such as communication and problem solving in the workplace highlight the need for underpinning language, literacy and numeracy skills.

To support this approach Darling Downs First Aid Training will:

- Assess a student's language, literacy and numeracy skills during their enrolment to ensure they have adequate skills to complete the training;
- Support students during their study with training and assessment materials and strategies that are easily understood and suitable to the level of the workplace skills being delivered;
- Provide clear information to students about the detail of the language, literacy and numeracy assistance available;
- Refer students to external language, literacy and numeracy support services that are beyond the support available within Darling Downs First Aid Training and where this level of support is assessed as necessary; and
- Negotiate an extension of time to complete training programs if necessary.

Language, Literacy and Numeracy Procedure

Language, literacy and numeracy assessment

The following procedure is to be followed in order to assess a student's language, literacy and numeracy skills:

- Self assessment. In the first instance, prospective students are asked on the enrolment form “Do you consider that you have adequate language, literacy and numeracy skills to undertake the course?” In response to this question, the student may tick yes, no or not sure. If the student ticks yes, it is to be assumed that the student will have the language, literacy and numeracy skills to undertake the training. Interview. If the student ticks no or not sure on the enrolment form, the student should be contacted and arrangements made for an interview to further assess their language, literacy and numeracy skills. The interview should be in person, or if this is not practical, by phone. The purpose of the interview is to establish the background, motivation and general abilities of the student to determine what support Darling Downs First Aid Training may provide. The Language, Literacy and Numeracy Interview Guide is available in the Language, Literacy and Numeracy Tools section that follows. LLN Indicator Assessment. Depending on the information gained from the interview, it may be necessary to invite the student to undertake the Darling Downs First Aid Training LLN Assessment. The assessment is not intended to cause anxiety but to determine where the student has specific language, literacy and numeracy deficits and to determine what support is required to undertake the Darling Downs First Aid Training training. The Language, Literacy and Numeracy Indicator Assessment is available in the Language, Literacy and Numeracy Tools section that follows.Supporting students with language, literacy and numeracy deficits

Where it is determined that a student does have deficiencies with language, literacy or numeracy skills, Darling Downs First Aid Training is to adopt strategies which enable the student to progress in their desired training program. The following strategies are to be considered and will be informed by the level of language, literacy or numeracy deficit determined during the assessment:

- Negotiate a training program with the student that recognises that additional time will be required to appropriately support the student to complete the training.
- Obtain a strong commitment from the student that they will provide personal effort that is in addition to that normally required to undertake the training program. If agreed to by the student, engage with the student's employer to negotiate the additional time and effort required to appropriately support the student during the training program.
- Provide the student with a list of the words and terms which are highly relevant to the workplace skills and knowledge being delivered within the training program. This list should be practised with the student to get them comfortable with identifying the words and their meaning. This list should be expanded over time and acts as a "vocational vocabulary" and will focus the student on small steps of achievement.
- Program sessions where learning information that would usually be delivered to the student via their own reading is presented to the student verbally and is supported by questions and answers.

Provide the student with 'quick reference' sheets which assist them to undertake basic mathematical tasks. These may be example calculations or conversion tables. The student may benefit from a session learning to use a calculator or simply recognising the common symbols and references.

- Make arrangement to regularly meet with the student to monitor their progress and adjust the support strategies.

Referring the student for language, literacy and numeracy assistance

Where it is determined that a student has language, literacy or numeracy skills which are beyond the support available within Darling Downs First Aid Training, the student should be referred for dedicated language, literacy and numeracy training. This training is available through most public training providers

(TAFE). These courses have been designed to provide students with the opportunity to gain specific language, literacy and numeracy skills required in a vocational or work environment, which meet the requirements to gain entry into a range of vocational qualifications and gain language, literacy and numeracy related employability skills.

The options for the student's attendance at this training are to be investigated by Darling Downs First Aid Training in close consultation with the student. These options should be presented to the student but ultimately it is the student's choice on the path they take. The cost for attendance at this training is met by the student and will not be met by Darling Downs First Aid Training.

If the student is unemployed or receiving certain Commonwealth payments, they may be entitled to financial support from Centrelink.

Deciding to refer the student

The decision to refer a student to another training provider for language, literacy and numeracy training will be based on the level of assessed language, literacy or numeracy deficit and the student's motivation to improve their abilities.

As a general guide:

- If the student does not currently possess the language, literacy and numeracy skills to perform the skills outlined in the target unit of competence, they should be referred for assistance which should occur prior to enrolment with Darling Downs First Aid Training.
- If the student's language, literacy and numeracy skills are adequate for the workplace but will hinder their participation in training, they should not be referred. Instead, Darling Downs First Aid Training is to design and implement suitable support services to enable their training and assessment.
